Bank of America Teams Up with Student ACES to Open New Youth Center

Made possible through $20,000 Bank of America grant and building donation

WHAT: On Friday, November 1, media are invited to the grand opening of the Student Athletics, Community and Education (ACE) Center (SAC) in Belle Glade. In support of Student ACES' mission to foster the development of successful high school students, Bank of America donated its Belle Glade financial center, along with $20,000 in funding, to the local organization.

Through the efforts of staff, community leaders and mentors, the center will provide leadership, academic and athletic support for student-athletes in the Glades area. It will become a place where youth develop their academic and athletic skills while also exploring interests in science, technology, engineering and math (STEM), including nutrition, robotics and solar energy.

Bank of America is committed to strengthening local communities by working with nonprofits that advance economic mobility and address workforce development and education, basic needs and community development.

WHO: Fabiola Brumley, Palm Beach County Market President, Bank of America
Krissy Webb, Co-Founder and Executive Director, Student ACES
**Local students also available for interviews.*

WHEN: Friday, November 1, 2019
9:30 – 12 p.m.

WHERE: Student ACES Center
915 S. Main Street
Belle Glade, FL 33430

WHY: Student ACES (ACE) is a 501(c)3 non-profit organization dedicated to inspiring every student to achieve a foundation of honor, character and integrity that will leave a positive and permanent impression on their teams, schools and communities. Bank of America selected Student ACES as a recipient of its economic mobility workforce development grant to give the nonprofit the ability to provide mental health awareness, leadership, financial literacy, character and values training. By removing barriers to economic success for vulnerable populations, including youth, it creates a more diverse and inclusive society by expanding opportunities and supporting equitable solutions that give communities the power to grow and prosper.
